After enjoying a very sumptuous repast tennis and other games were indulged in. Those present were, Misses Ella Raymond, Alma Imhoff, Dora Harley, Stella Elliott, Edna Bicketta, Messrs George Steiner, Will Bowen, Edward Wallace, Willis Winger, Fred White.

Mr. Henry Wessel and Mr. A. Fisham of Philadelphia, brother and uncle of Mr. L. Wessel, Jr., arrived yesterday to attend the Wessel-Ehrlich wedding. The former having recently graduated with honors from the law department of the university of Pennsylvania has concluded to remain west, while Mr. Fisham after a several weeks visit will return to the "city of brotherly love."

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the week was the reception given by the ladies' fraternity of the state university, in honor of their seniors, Misses Sara Schwab, Edith Brace, Ida Bonnell and Eleanor Williams, at the residence of Miss Stella Kiker, 636 south Seventeenth street. Elegant refreshments were served. Dancing and card playing were the chief pastimes of the evening.

Lieut. E. T. Wilson of the U. S. army is again in Lincoln for a time. During his stay here last winter while recruiting for Uncle Sam the Lieutenant made many friends who will be pleased to renew the former acquaintance. Like nearly all army officers, Lieut. Wilson is a courteous, genial gentleman and a pleasant one to meet.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hargreaves have the thanks of the COURIER for a large bunch of beautiful cape jessamine buds brought all the way from Alvin in the Lone Star State. Their fragrance of a delightfully sweet scented odor is certainly charming and has made life most pleasant at the COURIER sanctum.

WEDDING BELLS.

Written for THE COURIER.

How it thrills our hearts with gladness
As with pleasure each one tells
That he hears the distant murmur
And the chiming of wedding bells.

Do you know what they are saying?
If you'll listen I will tell,
For I hear them say that Wessel
Is to wed a St. Joe Belle.

So the wedding bells are ringing
A merry, merry tune
And the guests are all invited
To meet the tenth of June.

As that is the day appointed
For the wedding to take place,
Surrounded by their many friends
As you know will be the case.

After the wedding is over
My! but won't it be well,
There'll be a grand reception
Given at the Pacific Hotel.

And when the reception's over
They will go back East
And leave their friends behind them
After enjoying the wedding feast.

May their journey be fraught with pleasure
And their hearts with rapture swell
As they listen to the chiming
Of the distant wedding bell.

And when the journey's over
And they settle down for life,
May he prove a loving husband
And she a faithful wife.

May their lives be mostly sunshine
With only a little shade,
That makes the sun seem brighter
And the shadows quickly fade.

May their pathway lead forever,
Where flowers eternal bloom,
And their lives be clouded never
By dark and chilling gloom.

And when life's journey is ended
And they are laid to rest
May their souls unite in Heaven
And be forever blest.

J. E. M.

Children with weak eyes, sore ears, or any form of scrofula, cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Hallett's beautiful line of diamonds were never more complete than at present and just now he has such a large stock on hand that he is making extraordinary prices on them in order to reduce the stock. If you don't want a diamond now you may soon and it will be interesting to you to go around and see his line. Anything and everything from the smallest stone set in a baby's ring to the finest and most valuable ones set in rings, brooches, pendants, watches, chains, earrings, necklaces, lockets, lace pins, shirt studs and dozens of other beautiful articles. Hallett always buys from first hands, the importer, and not a middle man to whom large profits are paid. In this way he is able to give his patrons prices equally as low as the New York dealers—in fact oftentimes even lower for the simple reason that rents on Eleventh street in Lincoln are not one tenth what they are on Broadway, New York or State street Chicago. Other expenses are also lower and as he buys equally as cheap as the firms in the large city, why can't he do better by you? Answer this problem.

Ladies who are fond of horseback riding should call and see Henry Hapham, 142 north Eleventh street before purchasing saddles, whips, etc.

We are showing the most complete stock of hosiery and underwear in the city. Don't buy until you have seen our stock.
